2 METHODS USED IN VALUATION REPORT

In accordance with paragraph 1 of Article 29 of the Communiqué on Shares, if the sales price of the shares to be offered to the public is different from the exchange price or higher than the nominal value, a valuation report must be prepared by the authorized institution covering the said sales price and the methods used in the calculation of this price. In the event that the authorized institution is a related party of the corporation going public, as defined in the relevant regulations of the Board, the valuation report shall be prepared by another authorized institution. Within this scope, a valuation report dated 02.10.2023 (“Valuation Report”) was prepared by A1 Capital Yatırım Menkul Değerler A.Ş. (“A1 Capital”) in order to determine the Company’s equity value and the value of each share, and the value of the Company was calculated as 5.000.000.000 TL before the initial public offering.

This report is required to be published on the corporate website and in PDP.”

In the valuation report prepared by A1 Capital, the Net Asset Value (NAV) method and the Multiplier Analysis method were used to determine the final value of the Company, and since the weight of the value found by the Multiplier Analysis method in the final value calculation was determined as 0%, only the net asset value method was used in the valuation report. Based on the Net Asset Value method, a target market capitalization of 7.418.433.971 TL was reached before the initial public offering.
